Client Quote :

“In last few years we have seen a significant demand for our products world wide. Our production capacity was 140 panels per day & we wanted to increase production to 220 per day to meet demand. Whenever I used to discuss with my team to get this increase in production, they used to ask me to increase manpower by about 50%.

I came to know about Keur from one of my friends & approached them for help. With their support, we were able to achieve 220 panels per day without adding a single manpower.”

Comments from keur :

Increasing production using existing resources (without doing additional capital expenditure & without adding manpower), means a significant cost reduction - in per piece labour cost.

This increases substantially, the profit of the company (because entire cost reduction is transferred to bottom line).
